

Dear Robert,

As the Executive Director of the International Academy of Biological Dentistry and Medicine, I am speaking on behalf of the organization when I say, THANKS! Before the transformation, I was the sole person shouldering all the duties and responsibilities of daily operations. I felt that I bore the burden of growing the organization. Robert, you are my hero because you empowered a group of enthusiastic members to accept responsibility for their past and their future. They decided to reach out to existing members, creating closer relationships to enroll them in a future as “leaders in wellness”.

Each member of the design team was asked to write or call an existing member to enroll them into our new era. The results were incredible. One member that was assigned some of the International members, offered to fly there and help them have a mini meeting to promote Biological Dentistry in the Philippines. The letter I got of thanks from the doctor in the Philippines was very touching. Another member took it upon himself to poll the people he contacted and asked what we could do that would be of “outrageous value” to them.

We have our 25th anniversary meeting coming up in just a few months and I do believe that it will be a launching pad for our “New Era”. I am looking forward to what will “be as we practice being “out there” with everyone we come in contact with. Thanks for bringing the enthusiasm for transformation and the patience you used while some took longer than others to “Get it”.

Forever indebted,

Executive Director of The International Academy of Biological Dentistry and Medicine.
